

Ms. Hinano Kurebayashi

Undergraduate Student, Tokyo University of Foreign Studies

Hinano engaged in research on an African legal system within an anthropology research team. She studied at Stellenbosch University in South Africa during the third year, focusing on post-apartheid economic inequality. She also completed internships at a human rights organization in Rwanda and the Economic Development Department of JICA.

She committed to building a society that is capable of shedding light with the pain of others, through learning that bridges theory and practice.
