

Dr. Saori IMOTO

Saori Imoto is an Associate Professor at Japan Women's University, specializing in architectural and urban planning. Her research focuses on informal settlements, child-related facilities, and post-disaster reconstruction. With a background in both academia and field-based studies, she explores inclusive urban development and community resilience in Japan and internationally.