Karamo Cissokho

Born into a family of Griots—traditional musicians and storytellers—in Senegal, Karamo Sissoko began playing the kora, a lute-like string instrument from West Africa, at the age of six. He has performed across Europe, the U.S., and Japan, delivering music that blends tradition with innovation. Now based in Japan, he continues to perform in diverse settings, including the Fuji Rock Festival and the “WA Frika” live performance at the Marubeni Gallery.
